New 'Tin Tabernacle' in Hurst Green

I loved the BBC sitcom Blackadder. It was compulsory viewing for me as I grew up. I loved Rowan Atkinson, Tony Robinson, Hugh Laurie, Rik Mayall, and Stephen Fry's characters. It was for me, along with the Good Life, the quintessential British comedy. Perhaps what I most enjoyed was Baldrick's regular attempts to devise a "cunning plan" to get Blackadder and himself out of another dire situation. Of course, Baldrick's plans were always, always mad, always hilarious, and were never ever going to work outside of his head.

You may have noticed a large hole in Hurst Green. The Manse and the "Tin Tabernacle" have been torn down to be replaced with a gaping hole. I have to admit, I had a lump in my throat as the demolition went ahead and I have only served here for three years. I cannot imagine how those who have used the church building for decades must have felt at the demolition, particularly now as all they have is a slightly disappointing hole in the ground. I must admit that this week as I stood looking at the hole, the thought did cross my mind, have we gone and done a Baldrick here? When you look at it objectively the plan to build a new church can appear a bit mad. A tiny congregation, in a church that many people thought had shut down years ago, want to replace a much-cherished building on a prominent piece of land at the centre of the village with three houses and a rather modern church building which may not be to everybody's taste.

However, as I think back to how the "Tin Tabernacle" came to be on Hurst Green Common, I find a certain confidence. The land on which the new church building will sit was given to a handful of people to build a place of prayer more than a hundred years ago by Mr Blackman. I suspect that many at that time thought Mr Blackman's decision to give the land for a place of prayer rather mad, wasteful, and imprudent. After all, they would argue, it meant Mr Blackman couldn't finish the row of terrace homes he had planned, and partly built for the workers in his laundry. However, Mr Blackman's generosity led to a century of service with worship, marriages, anniversaries, children's clubs, committee meetings, birthdays, funerals, Christmas Fairs, Easter Egg parades, the list is endless being celebrated in the "Tin Tabernacle".

Whatever, my and possibly your doubts are, God willing, there will be a new "Tin Tabernacle" on the site in September 2024. I am very much looking forward to another century of worship, marriages, anniversaries, children's clubs, committee meetings, birthdays, funerals, Christmas Fairs, Easter Egg parades happening along with things we can't even begin to imagine in the new "Tin Tabernacle". Isaiah 43:19.

Reverend Sue Bosley appointed Team Vicar in the Oxted Team

On 15 October, we were able to announce that The Reverend Sue Bosley, presently Curate of Horley Team Ministry has been appointed Team Vicar in the Oxted Team, with particular responsibility for St John's Hurst Green and St George's Crowhurst, subject to completion of the necessary procedures. The Licensing service will take place on Tuesday 30 January at 7.30pm in St John's Church. We look forward to welcoming Sue and her family in due course.

Hurst Green Gardening Club by Brian Parrott

On 11 October, at our last meeting of the year, the speaker, Mike Wachter, gave a new dimension to foraging, which was well received. With the weather being more changeable these days we need to be more observant than before, and plan accordingly. My own circumstances have changed, and I have spent the last 3 months being shown what rewilding actually means. To find out more visit www.rewildingbritain.org.uk. Next year we have a full programme arranged. Our AGM is on 8 November and our first speaker meeting next year is on 10 January. See you there. For more information go to: www.hggardeningclub.blogspot.com

Defibrillator at St John's

We're delighted to advise that a defibrillator has now been installed outside St John's Church. It can be found in a lockable cabinet alongside the west door. As you may recall Anna Eltringham wanted the monies raised from her leaving collection to go towards the cost of this equipment and so we're very grateful to Anna for making this happen. You may not know but using a defibrillator within 3 – 5 minutes of a cardiac arrest means the chances of survival increase from 6% to a huge 74%.

A new sport is coming to Hurst Green!

You may have heard of Pickleball in the news recently, it's definitely a rising sport in the UK and there are now several clubs in the country. It's fun, easy to learn and great for keeping you active. There are no available-for-all pickleball groups near Hurst Green, but the dream has finally been realised. Thanks to funding from Oxted Parish Council and help from Hurst Green Community Centre Hurst Green's own Pickleball club is coming.
Sessions will be starting on Monday 6th November 2023 from 5.30pm to 7.30pm at Hurst Green Community Centre. All equipment will be provided and training given – you just need to turn up with comfortable sports clothing and a pair of court training shoes. There will be some free sessions held to introduce the sport and sessions thereafter will be £6 for 2 hours. Pickleball is suitable for all ages and abilities, but at present the club will be for 18's and over only. If you wish to attend email Amanda Starr at HurstGreenPB@gmail.com and if you're curious about Pickleball, have a Google!
